

“Charge” into the latest N Scale release from Kato USA!

Amtrak®'s latest prototype diesel engine is also the newest N scale engine from Kato USA! The ALC-42 “Charger” locomotive is Amtrak's replacement for the GE P42 and will be taking over long distance service across the USA. The first batch of Charger engines that Amtrak took delivery of were in a “Phase VI” paint scheme. Additionally, unit #301 was painted into a “Day One” paint scheme which harkens back to the first E8, #4316, that Amtrak had painted in their own colors.

The ALC-42 Charger is available in Analog and DCC variations, and has accommodations for sound installation as well. The distinctive vent on the side can be illuminated with the addition of a standard 11-211 interior lighting kit (sold separately)! Run these engines with Kato's Superliners® or with any of Kato's available Amfleet® or Viewliner® items!

Phase VI
